SILVER AND SOLAR

Silver is an essential material of every solar panel.

Silver demand from solar panels increased 330% since 2014 from 48 million ounces, to 160 m Oz in 2023.

Maintaining current trajectory of solar panel manufacturing could require up to 85-98% of current global silver reserves by 2050.

A silver deficit of 140Moz in 2023 was the third consecutive year of significant annual deficits which is expected to continue in 2024.

- Open along strike and at depth
- Undrilled Magnetic Anomalies
- Multiple mineralized intercepts outside of current resource constrained model

EXPANSION POTENTIAL

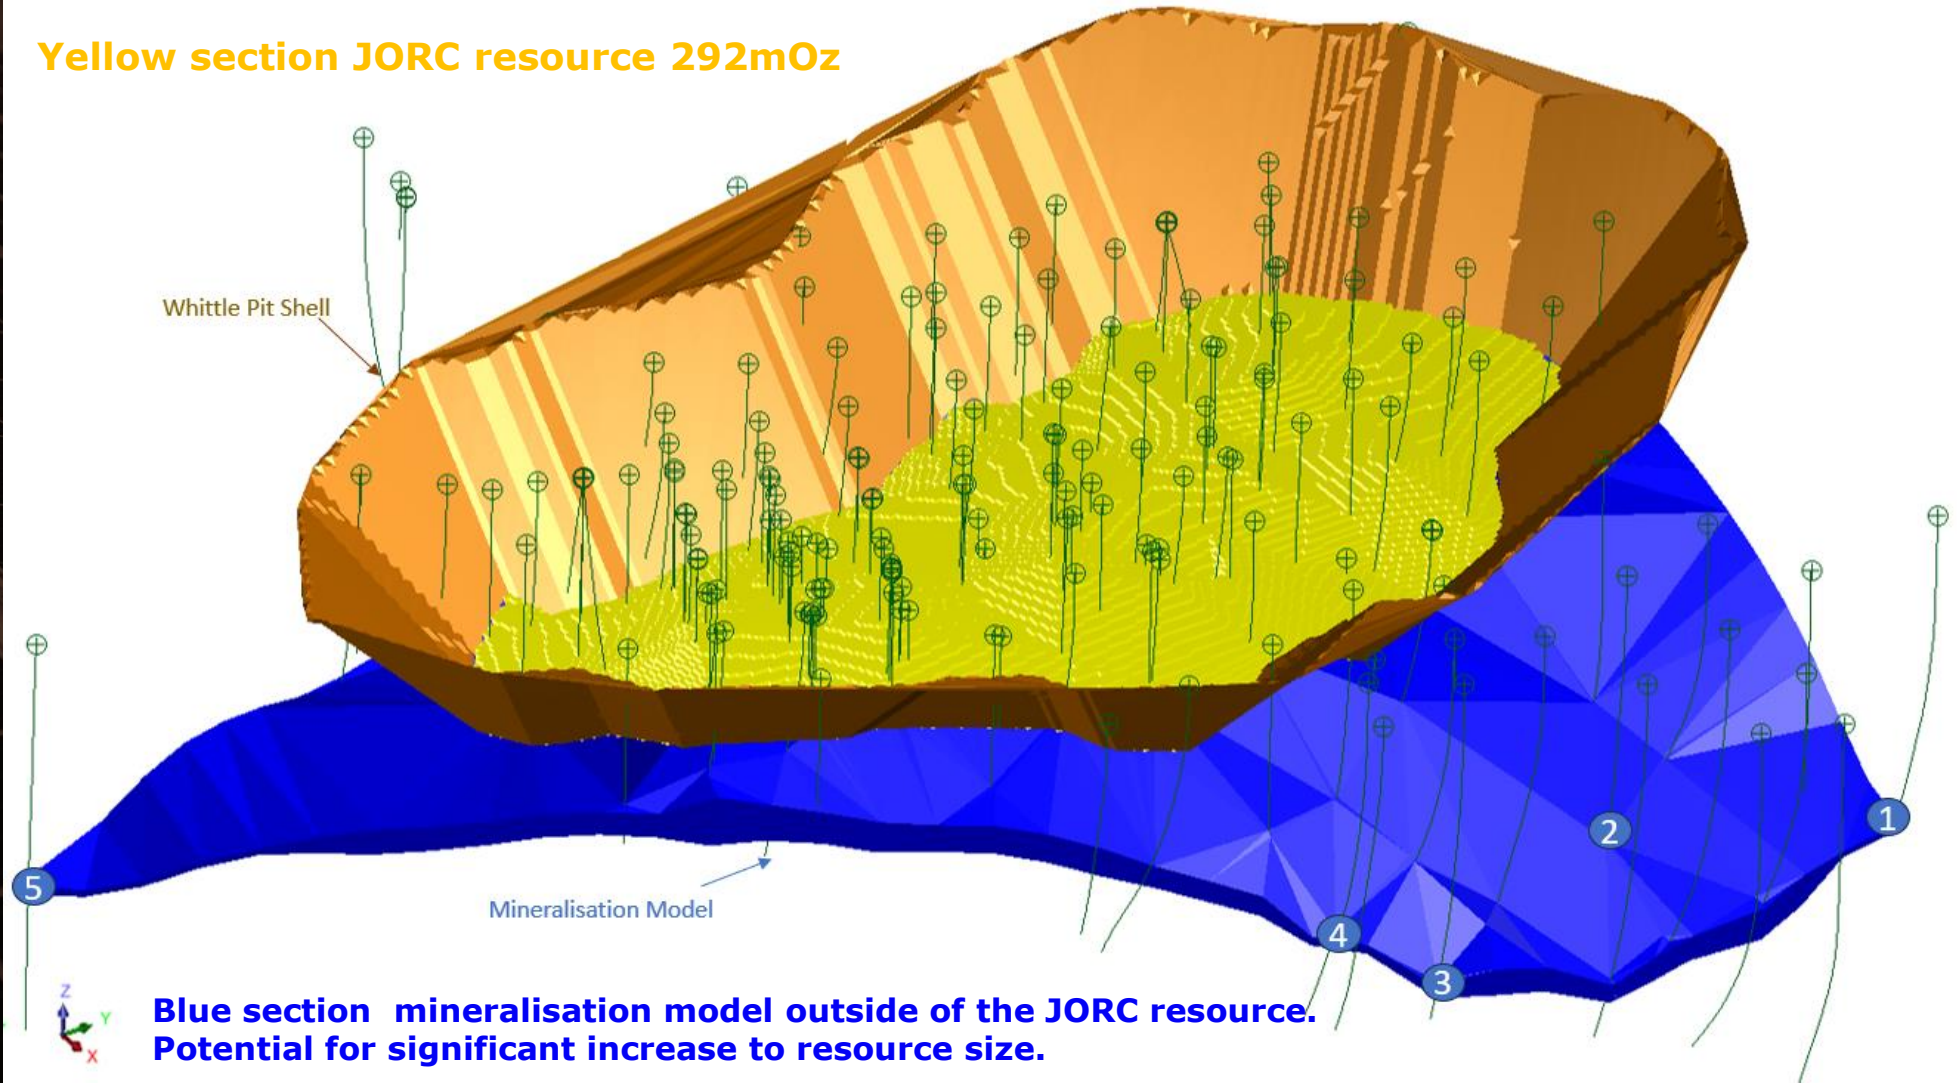

Drill results to the Northeast and South show mineralisation continues outside of pit constraints and is open along strike and at depth.

MAVERICK SPRINGS JORC RESOURCE SECTION

Model including all drill results shows mineralisation continues at depth beyond pit constraints

Yellow section JORC resource 292mOz

NEXT STEPS

Key future activities include:

- Resource expansion through:
 - Mine optimisation studies utilising current day data and economics
 - Expansion exploration drilling to the north and south of the current resource, targeting shallow high-grade ounces.
